

Falling Through Love: A Poetic Journey of Heartbreak, Loss, and the Unexpected

In his debut poetry collection, "Falling Through Love," Akif Kichloo takes us on a raw and often painful journey through the depths of heartbreak, loss, and unexpected love. With each poem, Kichloo explores the complexities of these emotions with honesty and vulnerability, inviting us to confront our own experiences of love and loss.

The collection opens with the poem "The Fall," which sets the tone for the rest of the book. In this poem, Kichloo describes the sudden and unexpected end of a relationship, using vivid imagery to convey the pain and disorientation he feels.

I fell through love Like a stone through water No splash, no ripple Just

As the collection progresses, Kichloo explores the different stages of grief and loss. In "The Aftermath," he writes about the numbness and disbelief that follow the end of a relationship.

I am a ghost in my own life
Wandering through the ruins
Of what we once

In "The Longing," he expresses the intense desire to reconnect with a lost love, even though he knows it's impossible.

I reach for you
But you are gone
And all that's left
Is a void

But even in the midst of heartbreak and loss, Kichloo finds moments of hope and unexpected love. In "The Unexpected," he writes about meeting someone new who helps him to heal his broken heart.

Out of the ashes
Of my broken heart
A new love has bloomed

"Falling Through Love" is a powerful and moving collection of poems that will resonate with anyone who has ever experienced the pain of heartbreak or the joy of unexpected love. Kichloo's honest and vulnerable writing style invites us to confront our own experiences of love and loss, and to find hope and healing in the unexpected.
