As they approach the Danish capital, Copenhagen, Sharpe and his men find themselves at the epicenter of a fierce battle between the British and Danish fleets. Amidst the thunder of cannons and the chaos of war, Sharpe must utilize all his military prowess and cunning to secure victory and deliver a decisive blow to the French forces.

Historical Background

The Expedition to Denmark was a real historical event that took place in 1807, during the Napoleonic Wars. Following the defeat of Prussia by Napoleon's Grande Armée, Denmark declared its neutrality and sought to maintain a balance between Britain and France.

However, the British government, fearing that Denmark might fall under French control, feared that it would provide Napoleon with a base for his fleet in the Baltic. Admiral James Gambier led a British fleet to Copenhagen, demanding the surrender of the Danish fleet. When the Danes refused, the British bombarded Copenhagen for three days, forcing the Danes to capitulate.

The Expedition to Denmark was a controversial event, with some historians arguing that it was an unnecessary act of aggression by the British. However, it did achieve its objective of preventing the Danish fleet from falling into French hands.

The Characters
